

Python Exercise 9 - Cross Validation

1. Using a generative AI tool, research and create a simplified definition of Cross Validation and its purpose. (Be sure to verify with other sources)
2. Create a function called "split_data()" to split the data into a train, validation, and test set. This should follow a split of 60%, 20%, and 20% for the train, validation, and test set, respectively.